

Thamiah L. Tutt, MBA is the Development Director of Major Gifts for the Department of Anesthesiology, Perioperative Medicine and Pain Management at the University of Miami Miller School of Medicine (UMMSM). In this capacity she leads all development initiatives within this dynamic clinical area.

Thamiah joined UMMSM in 2009 as Assistant Development Director with the University of Miami Pediatric Mobile Clinic and embraced increasing responsibilities early on. Her position included increasing funding opportunities, community partnerships and awareness. Before joining UM, she was Associate Director with United Way of Miami-Dade for four years where she led new business development and managed numerous fundraising campaigns within private and public sectors which raised $15 million annually for the local community. Thamiah is currently a part of the prestigious Miami Fellows program, an initiative of the Miami Foundation and a graduate of Leadership Miami.

Community involvement is a passion. She is president of the National Black MBA Association, Inc., South Florida Chapter; board member of Blacks In Philanthropy – South Florida Network; board member of Belafonte TACOLCY (The Advisory Committee of Liberty City Youth) Center, Inc.; founding civic committee chairperson for Young Professionals Network of the Miami-Dade Chamber of Commerce; and volunteered during the 2008 State of the Black Union Forum in New Orleans, LA. Thamiah graduated from Clark Atlanta University with a BA in Business Administration and earned her MBA at Nova Southeastern University.
